WOMEN STORM CAPITOL HILL

raised last year $25,000. Last year as chairman of the Congressional committee and this year as chairman of the executive committee of the Congressional Union, Alice Paul has shown the country by her resourceful, brilliant and effective leadership, the value of suffrage headquarters at Washington open all the time. Today this amendment introduced in the Senate by Senator Brewster, of Kansas, has been favorably reported by a majority committee and is now before the Senate.

In the box of the Congressional committee at the theater were Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman; Mrs. Antoinette Funk and Mrs. Sherman M. Booth, of the committee; Mrs. Meador, who has been prominently identified with the suffrage work in Chicago; Mrs. Glenna Smith Tinnin, chairman of the Washington Woman Suffrage Council, and Miss Virginia Watrous.

Senator Brewster Speaks.
Senator Brewster, of Kansas, was the chief speaker at the mass meeting. He is one of the authors of the Brewster-Mondell resolution, and with Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, his collaborator, he rode in the suffrage parade. The other speakers at the mass meeting were: Mrs. Antoinette Funk, editor of the Suffragist; Mrs. Donald R. Hooker, of Baltimore, president of the Just Government League of Maryland; Mrs. Grace W. Allen, president of the Congressional Union, and Miss Carolina Lexow, of New York.

Three Generations at Flag.
One of the features of the parade was a flag and drum corps connected with the delegation from the Just Government League of Maryland. This corps was composed of young Baltimore women and was led by "The Little General," Mrs. George S. Latimer, who headed the march to Annapolis.

Girls Carry Garlands.
In the first section of the parade were 20 girls, typifying Spring Youth, and Hope, which had been arranged under the direction of Mrs. Elphinstone Andrews, an artist. Thousands of garlands of flowers were carried by these girls, the shades of the blossoms having been selected to harmonize with the colors of Congressional Union, which are the parade—purple, white, and gold.

Amendment Is Demanded.
Representative Mondell told how by the reporting out of the judiciary committee of the suffrage resolution which has been organized a demonstration had been turned into a jubilee. He counseled the suffrage leaders to bend all their efforts to obtaining a vote at this session of Congress and spoke hope that a satisfactory majority would be secured.
